The Alamo Community Center

The Alamo Community Center, adjacent to the Sun River Health Alamo health center in Goshen, has been a hub of social support for agricultural workers and their families for decades. Over 3,600 individuals rely on services and support from The Alamo annually.

for adults, exercise classes, teen pregnancy support, and other important programming. The Alamo supports a youth summer program with over 80 participants and two weekly empowerment groups for girls ages 9-12 and 13-17 from agricultural worker families.

The Alamo Community Center’s food pantry provides food for over 250 households annually and delivers more than 40 hot meals to at-risk agricultural worker families every Sunday. Staff and community volunteers provide after school tutoring for about 30 children, a literacy program

Sun River Health’s outreach staff regularly visit agricultural worker housing to present Salud Para Todos, a drug and alcohol abuse awareness program. Representatives from the New York State Department of Labor are also available to assist agricultural workers with fair employment matters.

More About Us

- We participate in the NIH, All of Us Precision Medicine Research Program, to diversify biomedical research nationwide
- In partnership with ArchCare we run a mobile health center van serving local communities in need of healthcare access
- “Sun River Health Middletown is a unique model, where our primary care services are embedded within a behavioral health setting at ACCESS: Supports for Living
- Our Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC) program at the Poughkeepsie Family Partnership, is the largest of our network
- In addition to our typical high-quality healthcare, we offer additional supportive services to agricultural workers in the region, such as transportation, care coordination and interpretation. We retain access to this community through relationships we’ve built with farmworkers themselves, local growers and community organizations
